Item 4: Services, Fees and Compensation

Strategic Planning, Inc. is an investment adviser registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"). Our owner and President is Stanley R. Edgell. Mr. Edgell has been providing investment advisory services to a variety of clients for over 40 years.

As used in this brochure, "SPI", "we", "our", and "us" refer to Strategic Planning, Inc. and "you", "your" and "client" refer to you as either a client or prospective client of our firm.

We offer the wrap fee program described below ("Program") whereby we manage client accounts for a single, all-inclusive fee that compensates us for investment advisory services in the form of ongoing asset management of client portfolios and also covers custody services and transaction and commission costs. Under the Program, we recommend investment portfolios that are designed to meet client needs based upon client investment objectives and goals.

A. Investment Advisory Services/Wrap Fee Program

SPI provides investment advisory services in the form of ongoing asset management of client portfolios to Program clients by utilizing the consultative process described below. Upon signing SPI's Client Agreement, each Program client grants SPI and its investment adviser representatives discretionary authority with regard to the client's investment portfolio. This means that SPI is provided with the ability to make trades in the client account, including a determination of what positions to buy or sell and the timing of such purchases and sales, without obtaining a client's prior consent. Such authority does not extend to the withdrawal or transfer of Program account assets.

SPI has an initial consultation with its Program clients to gather in-depth information. SPI asks its clients to complete an investor profile worksheet that is designed to elicit information about what matters most to the client, how the client wants to use his/her wealth, and what the client expects from SPI. SPI then uses this information to determine the appropriate investment guidelines, risk tolerance and other factors that will assist in the selection of an investment portfolio that is suitable for the client's Program account. SPI diversifies and manages the client's portfolio. Investments are made based upon the client's investment objectives, risk tolerance, net worth, net income, and other relevant factors. For additional information regarding SPI's management of client portfolios under the Program, see Item 6, Portfolio Manager Selection and Evaluation, below.

Except as otherwise provided below, the investment portfolios recommended to investment advisory services clients will primarily consist of equity securities that are selected based on research conducted by, and provided to, SPI. Other securities, including, but not limited to exchange-traded funds ("ETFs"), mutual funds and fixed income securities, may also be recommended when we deem such investments to be appropriate based on your stated goals and objectives.

A portfolio comprised primarily of mutual funds may be recommended to investors with a limited amount of investable assets and/or limited investment experience. While there are no set parameters regarding investable assets or investment experience, SPI will take into account all relevant facts and circumstances, including, but not limited to investment objectives and goals, investor net worth, fees and expenses, investor history, and risk tolerance, when determining whether to recommend an investment portfolio comprised primarily of mutual funds. Selected mutual funds will all be no-load, transaction fee funds. SPI clients are afforded the opportunity to acquire an appropriate share class of mutual funds that is made available to investment adviser clients who maintain accounts at Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. ("Schwab"), the independent custodian that has been selected by SPI. SPI will recommend mutual funds that are designed to meet client needs based upon client investment objectives and goals.

B. Program Costs

Clients pay a single, inclusive fee (the "Program Account Fee") because SPI, in addition to providing investment advisory services, has chosen to be responsible for the charges associated with other services. Included among those charges are transaction costs, such as commissions on the purchases and sales of stocks, bonds, ETFs and options. Except as otherwise provided below, Program clients will incur no charges other than SPI's Program Account Fee, as set forth in the fee schedule shown below.

Please consider that the Program Account Fee may or may not exceed the aggregate cost of such services if they were to be provided separately. In order to compare the cost of the Program with unbundled services, you should consider the turnover rate in our investment strategies, trading activity in the Program accounts and standard advisory fees and brokerage commissions that would be charged at other firms for similar products and services. Inasmuch as SPI will pay transaction and execution costs associated with equities transactions, a potential disincentive to trade securities may be presented.

The Program Account Fee does not include, and is separate and distinct from, the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds and ETFs to their shareholders. These fees and expenses are described in each fund's prospectus and will generally include a management fee, other fund expenses and a possible sales charge or distribution fee. In addition to the foregoing fund-related fees and expenses, there may be other fees or costs that are not included in the Program Account Fee, such as margin costs, odd-lot differentials, transfer taxes, wire transfer and electronic fund fees, and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions.

SPI does not maintain custody of Program account assets. Such assets must be maintained in an account at a "qualified custodian," generally a broker-dealer or a bank. SPI requires that its Program clients use Schwab, a FINRA-registered broker-dealer and SIPC member, as the qualified custodian. SPI is independently owned and operated and not affiliated with Schwab. Schwab will hold Program account assets in a brokerage account and buy and sell securities when SPI instructs Schwab to do so. Even though Program accounts are maintained at Schwab, SPI can still use other brokers to execute trades for Program accounts, as more fully described in SPI's firm brochure (see SPI Brochure, Item 12, Brokerage Practices). To the extent that securities transactions are executed away from Schwab, there may be commission mark-ups and mark-downs that Program clients will pay in addition to the Program Account Fee.

C. Fee Schedule

SPI is compensated in accordance with the Program Account Fee Schedule shown below. The fee that is payable is based on a percentage of the market value of Program account assets on the last business day of each quarterly billing period and is assessed as compensation for the provision of personal investment advisory services rendered, including (i) the creation of a suitable investment portfolio for inclusion in each client's account, and (ii) ongoing portfolio monitoring of Program investments. SPI may reduce or increase its Program Account Fee at any time. However, any increase in fees will be effective only following at least thirty (30) days written notice to any Program client affected by the increase.

Certain clients may be subject to negotiated fee amounts that are different from those reflected in the fee schedule shown below. Upon signing SPI's Client Agreement, each Program client authorizes SPI to instruct the custodian to deduct SPI's Program Account Fee directly from the client's account on a quarterly basis.

For SPI's investment advisory services provided to all investment advisory services clients, SPI shall receive the fees set for the in the fee schedule below.

If the Client's Account equals:	The annual advisory fee applied will be:
Greater than $0 but less than $100,000	1.15%
Greater than or equal to $100,000 but less than $250,000	1.05%
Greater than or equal to $250,000 but less than $1,000,000	1.00%
Greater than or equal to $1,000,000 but less than $2,500,000	0.95%
Greater than or equal to $2,500,000 but less than $3,500,000	0.90%
Greater than or equal to $3,500,000 but less than $5,000,000	0.85%
Greater than or equal to $5,000,000 but less than $10,000,000	0.80%
Greater than or equal to $10,000,000	0.75%

For purposes of applying the fee schedule, a single percentage shall be used to calculate the appropriate fee amount, as opposed to a tiered approach. For example, in a given billing period, if an SPI client has $1.2 million in an account, the applicable annual fee will be 95 basis points (.95%). Per the fee schedule above, the client's account was over $1,000,000 but less than $2,500,000. As stated previously, the Program Account Fee is a single, all-inclusive fee that compensates SPI for investment advisory services and also covers custody and transaction fees and costs.

D. Products and Services Available to SPI from Schwab Advisor Services

Schwab Advisor Services (formerly called Schwab Institutional) is Schwab's business serving independent advisory firms like SPI. They provide us and our clients with access to their institutional brokerage – trading, custody, reporting and related services – many of which are not typically available to Schwab retail customers. Schwab also makes available various support services. Some of those services help us manage or administer our clients' accounts while others help us manage and grow our business. Schwab's support services are generally available on an unsolicited basis (we don't have to request them) and at no charge to us as long as we keep a total of at least $10 million of our clients' assets in accounts at Schwab. Here is a more detailed description of Schwab's support services.

Services that Benefit Clients. Schwab's institutional brokerage services include access to a broad range of investment products, execution of securities transactions and custody of client assets. The investment products available through Schwab include some to which we might not otherwise have access or that would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment by our clients. Schwab's services described in this paragraph generally will benefit you and your Program account.

Services that May Not Directly Benefit You. Schwab also makes available to us other products and services that benefit us but may not directly benefit you or your account. These products and services assist us in managing and administering our clients' accounts. They include investment research, both Schwab's own and that of third parties. We may use this research to service all or some substantial number of our clients' accounts, including accounts not maintained at Schwab. In addition to investment research, Schwab also makes available software and other technology that:

- provide access to client account data (such as duplicate trade confirmations and account statements);
- facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts;
- provide pricing and other market data;
- facilitate payment of our fees from our clients' accounts; and,
- assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping and client reporting.

Services that Generally Benefit Only Us. Schwab also offers other services intended to help us manage and further develop our business enterprise. These services include:

- educational conferences and events;
- technology, compliance, legal and business consulting;
- publications and conferences on practice management and business succession; and,
- access to employee benefits providers, human capital consultants and insurance providers.

Schwab may provide some of these services itself. In other cases, it will arrange for third-party vendors to provide the services to us. Schwab may also discount or waive its fees for some of these services or pay all or a part of a third party's fees. Schwab may also provide us with other benefits such as occasional business entertainment of our personnel.

Services that are Currently Being Used. In addition to the institutional brokerage services described above, SPI currently makes use of the following information and technology services that are made available by Schwab:

- Schwab Advisor Center, which includes the following primary features:
 - account information, balances, positions, cost basis and transactional information
 - trading/rebalancing tools
 - news and resources
 - account alerts
 - forms and applications
 - custodial statements, tax information and trade confirmations
 - investment proposal center
- Schwab Alliance, a client facing website that enables users to view transactions, positions, balances, account history and cost basis information
- Morningstar Office, which includes research and analysis and billing information

Our Interest in Schwab's Services. The availability of these services from Schwab benefits us because we do not have to produce or purchase them. We don't have to pay for Schwab's services as long as we keep a total of at least $10 million of client assets in accounts at Schwab. The $10 million minimum may give us an incentive to require you to maintain your account with Schwab based on our interest in receiving Schwab's services that benefit our business rather than based on your interest in receiving the best value in custody services and the most favorable execution of your transactions. This is a potential conflict of interest. We believe, however, that our selection of Schwab as custodian and broker is in the best interests of our clients. Our belief is primarily based on our evaluation of the factors discussed in our firm brochure regarding the selection of custodians and brokers (see SPI Brochure, Item 12, Brokerage Practices), including the scope, quality and price of Schwab's services, and not Schwab's services that benefit only us. Given the amount of client assets that we have under management, we do not believe that maintaining at least $10 million of those assets at Schwab in order to avoid paying Schwab quarterly service fees presents a material conflict of interest.

Item 5: Account Requirements and Types of Clients

SPI provides investment advisory services under the Program to individuals, including high net worth individuals, and offers services to pension and profit-sharing plans, charitable organizations, and businesses. There is no minimum account size for participation in the Program.

Item 6: Portfolio Manager Selection and Evaluation

Your SPI investment adviser representative is the sole portfolio manager with respect to the Program. Please see the appropriate SPI Brochure Supplement (Form ADV, Part 2B) that provides pertinent information about your SPI investment adviser representative. Investment adviser representatives are selected by SPI based on various criteria, including training and experience.

As part of the portfolio management process, your SPI investment adviser representative conducts economic analysis using public information sources, as well as prospectuses, annual reports, and Morningstar Office, and attempts to analyze and determine the trends. These sources may use fundamental and technical analysis in their research. Fundamental analysis generally involves assessing a company's or security's value based on factors such as sales, assets, markets, management, products and services, earnings, and financial structure. Technical analysis generally involves studying trends and movements in a security's price, trading volume, and other market-related factors in an attempt to discern patterns.

Program clients will have the opportunity to place reasonable restrictions on investments in certain securities, types of securities or industry sectors. It is the client's responsibility to advise SPI of the client's investment objectives and any changes thereto, as well as any specific investment restrictions applicable to the client. In the event that a client deems any investment recommended or made to be inconsistent with the client's investment objectives or restrictions, it is the client's responsibility to provide prompt written notice to SPI.

There is no assurance that any investment or strategy will be profitable or successful in achieving a client's specific investment objectives or personal financial goals. It is impossible to predict with total certainty any return on any investment over any period of time. No such implication, suggestion or guarantee regarding your ability to attain any goal simply by investing in the hypothetical amount at the hypothetical returns for the estimated time periods contained in any plan or report is intended or implied. Any illustrations provided to a client should not be considered as a prediction of any investment result. Principal values of your investments will fluctuate and when redeemed, may be worth more or less than your original investment. Asset allocation does not ensure a profit or protect against losses in any market, including a declining market.

Investing in securities involves the risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear. Set forth below are specific risks that clients should be aware of and keep in mind.

Equity Risk. Equity securities generally have greater price volatility than debt securities. Equity securities may decline in value because of changes in the actual or perceived financial condition of their issuers or other events affecting the price of their shares.

Market Risk. Prices may increase or decrease, sometimes suddenly and unpredictably, due to general market conditions.

Liquidity Risk. Your investment adviser representative may not be able to purchase or sell a security in a timely manner or at desired prices or achieve SPI's desired weighting in a security.

Foreign Issuers Risk. Investments in securities of foreign issuers may involve certain risks that are greater than those associated with investments in securities of U.S. issuers. These include risks of adverse changes in foreign economic, political, regulatory and other conditions; changes in currency exchange rates or exchange control regulations (including limitations on currency movements and exchanges); differing accounting, auditing, financial reporting, taxes and legal standards and practices; differing securities market structures; and higher transaction costs.

Item 7: Client Information Provided to Portfolio Manager

The investor profile information referenced in Item 4, Part A, above, is disclosed to your SPI investment adviser representative to enable us to determine the Program investments that are suitable for you. Such information is held in confidence and is not disclosed by SPI to anyone without your consent, except as may otherwise be required by applicable law.

Item 8: Client Contact with Portfolio Manager

SPI investment adviser representatives strive to make themselves accessible to clients. You are encouraged to contact your SPI investment adviser representative with respect to any questions that you may have regarding the Program. Any changes regarding your investment objectives, risk tolerance or requested restrictions should be communicated promptly to your SPI investment adviser representative.

Item 9: Additional Information

Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of them or the integrity of their management. Neither SPI nor any of its investment adviser representatives are, or have been subject to, any disciplinary action or judgments.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

SPI provides financial planning services to its clients. To the extent that a financial plan prepared by SPI includes recommendations that certain securities be purchased by a client, investment adviser representatives of SPI can implement those recommendations by selecting an appropriate broker-dealer to execute client transactions. Please see the SPI brochure (Item 12, Brokerage Practices) for a discussion of the process that is used for the selection of broker-dealers for trade execution purposes. To the extent that such an SPI financial plan includes a recommendation that certain insurance products be purchased by a client, investment adviser representatives of SPI have the ability to implement that recommendation by offering certain insurance products for sale in their capacity as appointed agents of various insurance companies. These persons may earn commission-based compensation for selling insurance products. Such compensation is separate and in addition to SPI investment advisory fees. This practice presents a conflict of interest because persons providing investment advice on behalf of SPI who are insurance agents may have an incentive to recommend insurance products. However, you are under no obligation, contractually or otherwise, to implement financial plan recommendations and are under no obligation to purchase securities products or insurance products through anyone affiliated with SPI.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

SPI has adopted a Code of Ethics for all supervised persons of the firm describing its high standards of business conduct and fiduciary duty to its clients. The Code of Ethics includes (i) provisions relating to confidentiality of client information, (ii) a prohibition on insider trading, (iii) a prohibition on rumor mongering, (iv) restrictions on the acceptance of significant gifts, (v) provisions relating to the reporting of certain gifts and business entertainment items, and (vi) personal securities trading procedures, among other things. All supervised persons at SPI must acknowledge the terms of the Code of Ethics annually, or as amended.

SPI may recommend to clients or prospective clients the purchase or sale of securities in instances in which other SPI clients or persons associated with SPI directly or indirectly have an interest in those same securities. Persons associated with SPI are required to follow SPI's Code of Ethics. Subject to satisfying this policy and applicable laws, SPI's officers, directors and employees may trade for their own accounts in securities that are recommended to and/or purchased for SPI's clients. The Code of Ethics is designed to assure that the personal securities transactions, activities and interests of SPI associates will not interfere with (i) the making of decisions that are in the best interest of advisory clients, and (ii) the implementation of such decisions while, at the same time, allowing SPI associates to invest for their own accounts. Under the Code of Ethics, certain classes of securities have been designated as exempt transactions, based upon a determination that these would not materially interfere with the best interests of SPI's clients. In addition, the Code of Ethics requires pre-clearance of many transactions and restricts trading in close proximity to client trading activity. Nonetheless, because the Code of Ethics in some circumstances would permit SPI associates to invest in the same securities as clients, there is a possibility that SPI personnel might benefit from market activity by a client. Trading by SPI associates is continually monitored under the Code of Ethics in an effort to prevent conflicts of interest between SPI and its clients.

Certain accounts of SPI associates may trade in the same securities with client accounts on an aggregated basis when consistent with SPI's obligation of best execution. In such circumstances, the accounts of associates and the accounts of clients will share commission costs equally and receive securities at a total average price. SPI will retain records of the trade order (specifying each participating account) and its allocation, which will be completed prior to the entry of the aggregated order. Completed orders will be allocated as specified in the initial trade order. Partially filled orders will be allocated on a pro rata basis. Any exceptions will be explained on the trade order.

SPI's clients or prospective clients may request a copy of the firm's Code of Ethics by contacting us.

It is our policy that the firm will not affect any principal or agency cross securities transactions for client accounts. SPI will also not cross trades between client accounts. Principal transactions are generally defined as transactions where an adviser, acting as principal for its own account or the account of an affiliated broker-dealer, buys from or sells any security to any advisory client. A principal transaction may also be deemed to have occurred if a security is crossed between an affiliated hedge fund and another client account. An agency cross transaction is defined as a transaction where a person acts as an investment adviser in relation to a transaction in which the investment adviser, or any person controlled by or under common control with the investment adviser, acts as broker for both the advisory client and for another person on the other side of the transaction. Agency cross transactions may arise where an adviser is dually registered as a broker-dealer or has an affiliated broker-dealer.

Review of Accounts

Client accounts are managed and reviewed continuously by SPI's investment adviser representative and are formally reviewed on an annual basis by Stanley Edgell, SPI's President and Chief Compliance Officer. The review process includes each of the following elements: (i) evaluate the strategy that has been employed, (ii) monitor the portfolio and (iii) address the need to rebalance. In addition, account reviews may be triggered by a specific client request or a change in a client's goals or objectives.

All clients will receive a written annual report that outlines the client's current positions and provides the current market value and cost basis of all positions within the account.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

SPI does not offer compensation to any party for client referrals and does not accept referral fees.

Financial Information

We do not receive fees of more than $500 six months or more in advance. Accordingly, we are not required to provide financial information to our clients. We do not have a financial condition that would impair our ability to meet our contractual commitments to our clients.

Strategic Planning, Inc.

FORM ADV, PART 3 – CLIENT RELATIONSHIP SUMMARY Effective June 30, 2020

Strategic Planning, Inc. (“SPI,” “we” or the “Firm”) is registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission as an investment adviser. Brokerage and investment advisory services differ, and it is important for the retail investor to understand the differences. Free and simple tools are available for you to research firms and financial professionals at Investor.gov/CRS, which also provides educational materials about broker-dealers, investment advisers, and investing.

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

The Firm offers investment advisory services to retail investors. This includes investment management services and comprehensive financial planning services. A full description of our investment advisory services can be found in the Firm’s disclosure brochure, which is prepared in accordance with SEC Form ADV, Part 2A (the “Brochure”). The Brochure is available on the Firm’s website at www.stgplan.com.

The Firm’s investment management services are made available as part of a Wrap Fee Program. Under its Wrap Fee Program, SPI manages client accounts for a single, all-inclusive fee that compensates SPI for investment advisory services and includes custody services and transaction and commission costs. For more information regarding the Firm’s Wrap Fee Program, please see the Firm’s Wrap Fee Program brochure, which is a supplement to the Brochure and is prepared in accordance with Appendix 1 of SEC Form ADV, Part 2A (the “Wrap Fee Program Brochure”).

There is no minimum investment amount or minimum account size required for the Firm’s investment management services. The Firm has discretionary authority with regard to its investment management services. This means that we are granted authority to make trades in client accounts without obtaining the client’s consent prior to trading. There are no limitations on the types of investments that can be made on your behalf. The Firm’s investment management services include the selection of securities for client investment portfolios and the ongoing monitoring and management of client accounts. These services also include a formal review that is conducted with clients no less frequently than annually.

The Firm’s financial planning and consulting services include recommendations regarding securities and other investments. The financial plans prepared by SPI are individualized for clients and can include one or more of the following activities: investment analysis and planning, insurance analysis, retirement planning, business and personal financial planning, and distribution strategy and analysis.

Questions you may want to discuss with your financial professional

- Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Why or why not?
- How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
- What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

What fees will I pay?

Fees for investment management services are based on assets under management. These fees are calculated based on the fair market value of your assets under management on the last business day of each quarterly billing period. Fees are payable at the end of each calendar quarter billing period. As noted above, the all-inclusive fee under our Wrap Fee Program will include most transaction costs and fees for the custodian of your assets and, therefore, may be higher than a typical asset-based advisory fee. Fees paid to SPI are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds and exchange-traded funds to their shareholders.

Financial planning and consulting services are made available at no additional charge to those clients who have engaged SPI to provide ongoing investment management services. In all other cases, SPI charges a flat fee for these services that is determined based upon the scope and complexity of the engagement.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying. Fees and costs related to our investment advisory services are more particularly described in the Firm’s Brochure.

The impact of fees and costs on investments

We are prepared to address the following regarding fees and costs:

- Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments.
- If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means.

Insurance Products. When a financial plan includes a recommendation to purchase an insurance product, we can offer certain insurance products that, if purchased, would result in the receipt of commission-based compensation. This presents a conflict due to the incentive we have to recommend insurance products. You are under no obligation, however, to purchase insurance products through anyone affiliated with the Firm.

Services Provided to Us by the Custodian of Your Assets. Certain services are provided to us by the custodian that we use to maintain custody of your account assets. The availability of these services benefits us because we do not have to produce or purchase them. The client asset threshold required to receive these services may give us an incentive to require you to maintain your account with this custodian. We believe, however, that our selection of this custodian is in the best interests of our clients.

How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

The more assets that are in your managed advisory account, the more you will pay in fees. The Firm may therefore have an incentive to encourage you to increase the assets in your account. As a registered investment adviser, and as a fiduciary to our clients, SPI has a duty of loyalty and a duty to always act in utmost good faith, place our clients' interests first and foremost and to make full and fair disclosure of all material facts pertaining to potential or actual conflicts of interest. For more information regarding how the Firm addresses conflicts of interest, please see the Firm Brochure.

How do your financial professionals make money?

Our financial professionals receive a percentage of the investment advisory fees that the Firm earns from their provision of investment advisory services.

Do you or your financial professionals have a legal or disciplinary history?

Neither the Firm nor its financial professionals currently have legal or disciplinary history requiring us to provide disclosure in this section. You may visit Investor.gov/CRS, which provides a free and simple search tool to research the Firm and its financial professionals. You should feel free to ask your financial professional the following questions regarding disciplinary history:

- As a financial professional, do you have any disciplinary history?
- For what type of conduct?

Additional information

Additional information about the Firm can be obtained by (i) going to adviserinfo.sec.gov, or (ii) contacting the Firm by telephone at 614-802-0170.

Contact Person

Who is my primary contact person? Is he or she a representative of SPI? Who can I talk to if I have concerns about how this person is treating me?

Your primary contact is Stanley Edgell, President of SPI and an investment adviser representative of the Firm. If you have any concerns about SPI or would like to request a copy of our Client Relationship Summary, our Brochure or our Wrap Fee Program Brochure, Mr. Edgell can be reached at 614-802-0170.
